STRATEGIC PLANNING

Fyfe is well respected in the provision of strategic planning advice, with extensive experience in advising both state and local government authorities.

Our strategic planning expertise is derived from the wide array of specialist skills which we can bring to the overall process, including specific expertise in relation to property market dynamics, research, population and retail modeling, community consultation, governance and implementation.

We understand the strategic context, the political complexities, commercial realities, community expectations and the processes involved in undertaking major strategic planning exercises.

We make sure that we are constantly informed of market needs and trends, industry and political developments, and use our expertise, reputation and connections to deliver optimum outcomes.
